25X1

1. Construction work was going on on hangars and quartering buildings at Biala Podlaska (S 53/M 46) airfield. Polish soldiers and civilians were employed. Part of the soldiers were quartered in a construction train parked on the railroad line north of the field. The airfield was occupied by single-engine biplanes with Polish nationality markings.¹
 2. Thirty single-jet aircraft which appeared to be lined up for an inspection were observed at the Warsaw-Bernerowo (R 53/P 99) airfield.²
 3. Five to 8 single-engine low-wing monoplanes conducted air activity at the Minsk-Janow (R 53/L 48) airfield. Take-offs and landings were observed.³
- 25X1 1. Comment. There was apparently no change in the occupation of Biala Podlaska airfield. A Polish aviation school equipped with Po-2s is believed to be stationed there.
- 25X1 2. Comment. According to previous information, 2 or 3 Polish fighter regiments equipped with MiG-15s are believed to be stationed at the Warsaw-Bernerowo airfield.
- 25X1 3. Comment. In April and June 1953, single-engine monoplanes, probably Il-2s or Il-10s, had also been observed in that area. Possibly a ground attack regiment or an aviation school of the Polish Air Force is stationed at the Minsk-Janow airfield.
